

MACHINE-TOOL TRADE IRON AND STEEL

A pleasing feature of the annual dinner of the Machine Tool Trades Association, held at the Trocadero Restaurant, London was the presentation of a handsome silver tray and tea set to Sir Alfred Herbert, K.B.E., the late Pres. of the Association. The presentation was made by the new President, Ex-Provost W. B. Lang, J.P., who occupied the chair, and in the course of his remarks said he was conscious of the regret felt by many members when they heard Sir Alfred's resignation was final. The Association had before it the most important exhibition it had ever held, and Sir Alfred had given his assurance that his great experience and valuable co-operation would be at his, the new President's, disposal. In the course of his reply, Sir Alfred said he appreciated the gift the more because his retirement was the result of a difference of opinion, and it showed that the members were big enough not to allow that to affect their personal friendships. For twenty-two years he had been Chairman and President of the Association, which had grown to a position of great importance.

Common Interests

The members naturally had many interests in common, and could take united action for the benefit of the trade, although competition was valuable in business. Mr. J. H. Goddard proposed the toast of "Our Guests," and in the course of his speech expressed approval of the Trade Agreement between this country and Russia, and of the work of the Department of Overseas Trade. Responses were made by His Excellency Mons. J. Maisky, Ambassador of the U.S.S.R., and by Sir Edward Crowe, K.C.M.G., Comptroller General of the Department of Overseas Trade. The latter in the course of a most felicitous speech, invited the members to make more use of his Department. When the overseas officers of the Department travelled round the country, he said, the members should take steps to ensure an interview with them, as they could often be of considerable assistance. The Department might also be of service in connection with the exhibition to be held in the autumn.

Reorganisation Of The Industry

One of the first acts of the newly-constituted British Iron and Steel Federation was to draw the attention of the Import Duties Advisory Committee to the desirability of an early announcement regarding the duties on the products with which they are concerned. It will be remembered that in April, 1932, a duty of 33½ per cent. was imposed on imported material for a period of three months, and that this was accompanied by a statement calling attention to the necessity for a considerable measure of internal reorganisation. This period was extended for two years from October 26, 1932, thus giving the industry more scope for tackling a problem the difficulties of which at once became apparent. Fortunately, a solution, which everyone hopes will be successful, has been found, and to mark its approval of what has been done the Committee last week made an Order providing that the duties chargeable shall continue without limit of period. In doing so, they point out that though the present scheme of reorganisation is of a "less compelling" character than that submitted a year ago, it is on substantially the same lines and has the support of the great bulk of the industry. Its ultimate success, it is added, will entirely depend on the vigour and single-mindedness with which the machinery of the reorganisation scheme is applied.

New Central Body

It cannot be denied that during the two years that the duties have been in force the industry as a whole has benefited, though there have undoubtedly been some exceptions to this general statement. Now that permanency is assured, it should be possible to go forward with schemes of extension and as an earnest of what can be done in this direction, attention may draw to the announcement that Messrs. Guest, Keen and Baldwin's, Limited, are undertaking the reconstruction of their Cardiff works at a cost of £2,000,000.

Development Of The North-West

Nanking, June 23. The 9th meeting of the Standing Committee of the National Economic Council was held here yesterday under the chairmanship of President Wang Ching-wei, and with General Chiang Kai-shek, Minister H.H. Kung and Mr. T. V. Soong in attendance. President Sun Fo was unable to be present as he had to preside at the regular weekly meeting of the Legislative Yuan.

After the meeting was called to order, Mr. Soong made a detailed report on the results of his recent tour of the North-west, with special reference to water conservancy, highway construction, public health and rural reconstruction.

A report on the work of the Council during the past fiscal year and the receipts and disbursements as well as the budgetary estimates for the next fiscal year was then made by Mr. Chin Fen, Secretary-General.

Mr. Soong's Proposal Adopted. The meeting then proceeded to discuss the various proposals on the agenda, the most important being the one submitted by Mr. T. V. Soong recommending the revision of the Council's original plans for the development of the North-west. This proposal was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Soong's proposal was based on the results of his personal inspection in April of the North-western provinces, including Shensi, Kansu, Ninghsia and Chinghai (Kokonor). It recommends that the appropriations originally decided upon by the Council for the development of the North-west during the 23rd fiscal year (July 1, 1934—June 30, 1935) be modified.

Other Resolutions

The meeting also approved and adopted the following regulations:

(1). Provisional regulations governing the organization of the Engineering Bureau for the Chinghui and Lohui Irrigation Canals.

(2). Provisional regulations governing the organization of the Engineering Bureau for the Ping-sheng Irrigation Canal.

(3). Provisional regulations governing the organization of the Central Cotton Improvement Station, and the provisional regulations governing the organization of the various Provincial Cotton Improvement Stations.

Cotton Cultivation

The proposal of the Cotton Control Committee for the allocation of $150,000 from the Cotton Cultivation and Control Fund for the improvement of cotton spinning and dyeing was approved.

The meeting also decided to establish a branch office of the Council in Kiangsi, immediately, with Mr. Hsiao Shun-chin as Director.

According to another resolution adopted, Mr. Cheng Chao-ching, technical expert of the Hydraulic Engineering Bureau is to be promoted as Deputy Director of the said Bureau. His post as Chien-jen technical expert will be taken by Mr. Wang Hu-chan, Tsiun-jen technical expert, and concurrently Chief of the Planning Section of the said Bureau.

The proposal containing measures for highway construction in the North-west was adopted.

On the motion of Minister H. H. Kung, the meeting decided to dispatch experts to Shansi immediately to inspect the work of water conservancy in that province.—Kuo Min.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

Foochow, June 25. Work for the installation of a long-distance telephone network linking up the important cities of Foochow, Yenping, Changchow and Amoy is to be started immediately. The Ministry of Communications has despatched Mr. Chao Shih-chung, Director of the Telegraph Engineering Bureau for Shanghai, and Mr. Hsiang Sung, technical expert to the Fukien provincial capital to make preparations. SAFETY OF THE BROKEN ROADS

How The Difficulty Is Overcome

In a memorandum submitted to the Ministry of Transport, the Automobile Association put forward suggestions for reducing the number of road accidents. Among these, the most important are that more attention should be paid to the education of all classes of road users, that the roads should be developed along more progressive lines, and that the off-side rule should be immediately adopted.

In the course of the memorandum, it is stated that any proposals which might have for their object the creation of new laws to harass the motorist are to be deprecated, and that actually, the source of most of the suggestions for new and repressive legislation may be traced to the anti-motoring atmosphere created by an insidious form of propaganda, rather than to any conclusions as to the actual causes of the increased number of accidents. This statement appears to evade one of the most important issues that have led to the present strained situation between the various classes of road user. No statistics, but only an elementary power of observation, is needed to arrive at the conviction that a large number of motorists exhibit a distinct lack of imagination when at the wheel of their cars. Little objection can be taken to the main proposals put forward by the Association, although the proposals for road development, which include the removal of level crossings on all important roads, and the extended provision of footpaths, demands a heavy expenditure for which funds are hardly likely to be available for some considerable time.

ment of materials has been transported here.

The total outlay amounting to $300,000 will be appropriated direct by the Ministry of Communications. Work is to be completed within two months. The services will be under the direct control of the Ministry.—Kuo Min.

HIGHWAYS IN CHEKIANG

Hangchow, June 24.

An agreement for a loan of $800,000 from the Four-Province Farmers' Bank (for Honan, Hupeh, Anhwei and Kiangsi) in Hankow for the construction of highways in Chekiang province has been signed by representatives of the Bank and the Chekiang Provincial Department of Reconstruction. It is learnt.

$400,000 will be immediately remitted to the Provincial Department. The revenue from some of the highways in eastern Chekiang will be earmarked as security.—Kuo Min.

CANTON AND CHANGSHA

Nanchang, June 25.

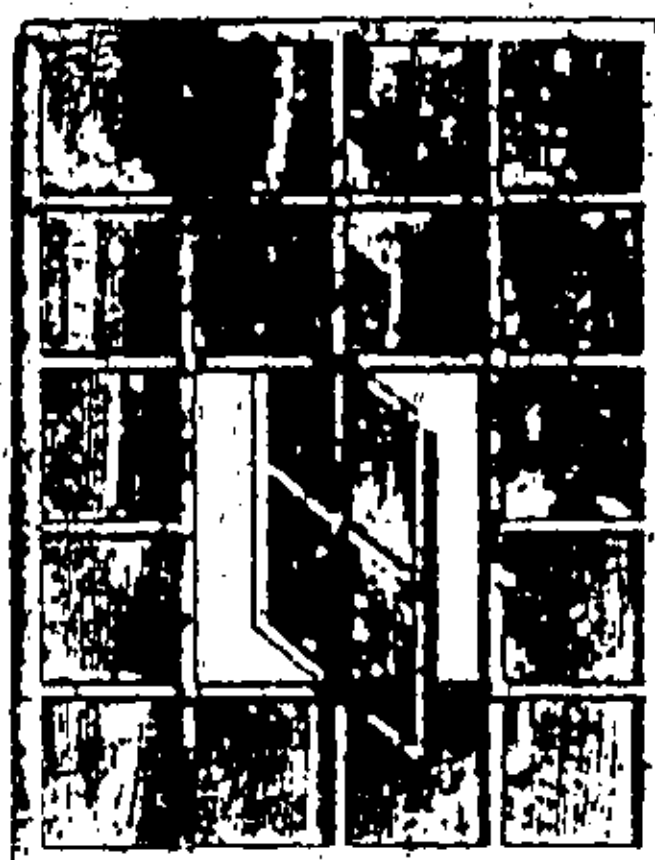

The Kiangsi Provincial Highway Bureau is planning to penetrate into the bandit-infested areas for the construction of the Kiangsi-Hunan and Kiangsi-Kwangtung Inter-Provincial Highways so as

One of the most important problems in connection with the increasing mechanisation of the Army is that of improvising roads in broken or undeveloped country. A demonstration of the latest developments in this direction was included in a display given by the Royal Engineers at Aldershot. The first method shown was that of laying down the type of netting commonly employed in reinforced-concrete road work, the netting being covered by about 3 in. of soil. While this expedient would enable a convoy of lorries to cross a patch of boggy ground or soft sand, it is obvious that it could in no way take the place of a metalled or concrete road. An efficient substitute for the latter, however, was demonstrated in the form of road construction known as "mix in place." A length of completed road was shown, capable of withstanding heavy traffic, while a further length was shown under construction. The majority of the plant in use was provided by Messrs. Roadless Traction, Limited, Hounslow. The essential operations consisted in preparing the ground by utilising a single furrow plough drawn by a Fordson tractor, followed by a Garrett tractor drawn by a Garrett tractor, and then covering the surface with a mixture of soil and tar emulsion, the mixture setting very rapidly. The plant in use included a rotary scoop made by Messrs. John Allen, Limited, drawn by a Ransome Rapier tractor, a disc harrow of Messrs. Ransome, Sims and Jefferies' construction, and an emulsion tank lorry and pressure sprayer, lent by Messrs. Colas, Limited.

The scoop was employed to supplement the grader for evening off the ground undulations, and the harrow to obtain material for mixing with the emulsion. Terclis emulsion was employed, which will combine with practically any kind of soil, except clay. Two gallons were used per square yard of surface and it was stated that after a few days the road would stand up to pneumatic-tyred traffic for two years. On the type of ground used in the demonstration, a party of 40 skilled men should be able to construct about 1 mile of road per day, the amount of emulsion required being 60 tons. The display referred to was arranged for showing new equipment and modern methods of field engineering, and was watched by many officers. It included bridge work, both by means of portable girder construction and floating boats, service hutting, a demonstration of portable power tools, and of pump for obtaining an emergency water supply. Displays were also given of the construction of various types of trench, and of defence work against armoured cars and tanks.

COKE-OVEN GAS

Sheffield manufacturers are using more coke-oven gas for the heat-treatment of steel. The practice is on a scale comparable with the schemes operating in the Ruhr. One of the city's largest steel-producing firms is consuming gas transmitted from coke-ovens three miles away. The firm state that the use of this gas at high pressure has led in every case to a considerable reduction in the amount of scaling of the steel. As a result of the high calorific value of the gas, heating up is very rapid; there are no delays occasioned through "waiting for heat." Increased outputs have been obtained in consequence, with relatively a decreased amount of labour. Tests are reported to have proved that coke-oven gas has very definite technical advantages over other types of fuel. In another case at a works producing galvanised wire netting—a new industry recently set up in Sheffield—coke-oven gas is used for heating annealing furnaces and galvanising tanks. As compared with other works where coal or producer gas is employed for the same purpose, it has been found that all the operations can be carried out with a greater degree of precision, and the heat consumption per ton of finished product has been considerably decreased. There is practically no wastage of fuel, and no transport costs for solid fuel either to, or within, the works. It is estimated that the potential consumption of coke-oven gas in iron and steel works in the Sheffield area is about 23,500,000,000, cub. ft.

THE REPAIR OF WROUGHT-IRON

—In the wrought-iron driving or driven pulley constructed with arms of circular section riveted with a countersunk in the rim, trouble is sometimes experienced from the arms becoming loose in the rim, a defect which is seldom permanently cured by re-riveting. To enable pulleys with arms so loosened to be rapidly made good Messrs. Victory Pulley Supply Depot, 10, Wool-street, Oldham, have brought out a device which they have named "The New-Way Pulley Repairer." This consists of a yoke-shaped iron fitting which is inserted on the underside of the rim and embraces the loose arm. The central portion is formed with a boss in which are two set-screws set radially to the arm. The ends of the yoke are attached to the rim either by countersunk rivets or bolts and the set-screws are then tightened up on the arm. It is claimed that this device, which can be fitted without removing the pulley from its shaft, not only secures the arm firmly, but makes the pulley stronger than it originally was, whilst not destroying its circularity. A subsidiary use is that of enabling a pulley to transmit increased horse-power by fitting a yoke piece to each arm. The device is at present made to fit four sizes of pulley arms, viz., 4 in., 6 in., 8 in., and 10 in. in diameter.

EXHORBITANT TAXES

To Be Abolished

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 4.

Numerous miscellaneous and exorbitant taxes collected either by the provincial or county government are to be abolished in accordance with the Three-Year Plan. This is the statement of a sectional head of the Provincial Department of Finance.

"There are about forty such taxes collected by the provincial government and over 100 taxes collected by the county administrations. The rate is of course very low, yet they are burdensome on the people. In a recent announcement, Mr. Ou Fang Po, Commissioner of Finance, said that the abolition of these taxes should have been done long ago, but government revenue decreased owing to the late troubles in Fukien.

The establishment of the People's Revolutionary Government in Fochow last November created a big scare here, because Nanking publicity organs declared that it was a Communist government. Then the same accusation was repeated by the local vernacular press in order to discredit the Fochow regime.

Therefore, the people in Canton were much alarmed by the development in Fukien. When in fact it was not more Communist than the Nanking Government. The scare in Canton had a bad effect on trade, and revenues went down.

At the same time the Provincial Department of Finance will levy a protection tax on imported goods which are competing with Chinese commodities. This tax will probably compensate the abolition of the 140 miscellaneous and excessive imposts. The Canton Chamber of Commerce and other tax bureaus are in favour of this tax on foreign goods.

POET'S STATUE FOR SCOTLAND

Unveiled By The Duke Of York

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20. The original plaster statue from which was cast the Melbourne bronze of Adam Lindsay Gordon, the Australian national poet, is to be presented shortly to one of the principal Scottish cities, writes a correspondent. A bust of the poet, who took such pride in his Highland descent, was unveiled by the Duke of York last month in Westminster Abbey. The sculptor, Mr. Paul Raphael Montford, readily agreed to the suggestion of Mr. Douglas Sladen, the veteran litterateur, that his work, which is given an honoured place at this year's Royal Academy exhibition, should find a Scottish home. The selection of the favoured Scottish gallery has been left to Mr. Sladen, who sponsored the petition for the inclusion of the Lindsay bust in the poet's corner of Westminster Abbey.

After attending the meeting of the South-west Political Council this morning, Mr. Tang Shao Yi, a member of the standing committee, left for Tong Ka Wan this afternoon via Hong Kong. At the British Colony, Mr. Tang will call on Mr. Hu Han Min, retired Kuomintang leader.

Mr. Tong will discuss important political matters with Mr. Hu Han Min. It is considered strange here that no circular telegram is issued by the South-west Political Council or the Kuomintang South-west Executive Committee opposing the resumption of railway communications between North China and Manchukuo. It appears possible that opposition will be made in some other way.

SHANGHAI MEN HERE

General Chang Ting Fan and Mr. Chen Chung Fu, members of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee, have arrived here from Shanghai to interview other Kuomintang leaders here on current national problems. It is said that they represent members of the Kuomintang C.E.C. in Shanghai and are here on an important mission. KING REMEMBERS OLD PUGILIST

Votes To Help Him

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

The King has come forward as the champion of an old bare-knuckle fighter, who, falling on bad times, appealed to his Majesty to help him into an institution. The man is Alfred Mitchell, and the King, remembering having seen him fight many years ago, used his votes as a subscriber to have him accepted as an inmate of the Licensed Victuallers' Benevolent Institution at Peckham. Mitchell, who is 75, will be allotted comfortable rooms at the institution as soon as they are available. He was one of the best-known bare-knuckle fighters of his day. Later he became a licensee.

This episode is another example of the King's amazing memory, for although the old fighter did not mention the incident when he wrote, the King remembered having seen him with his father, King Edward, when he was only 16 years of age.

Anyone wishing to enter the institution must receive a certain number of votes from subscribers, and Mitchell wrote to the King appealing for his votes. Now he will have a settled home until the end of his days.

NEWS FROM PORTUGAL

The Municipal Holiday

Amongst the relatively limited number of public holidays given by the Portuguese Government, there is one on the 24th of June which is called a "Municipal Holiday." On this date the municipalities usually celebrate the occasion by some public festivals, partly paid by the municipal funds.

This year, the Lisbon Municipal Chamber decided that the festival should be on a bigger scale and large attractions were planned and carried out with much enjoyment to the population.

One item which attracted much attention was the cortege of national vehicles and the historical reproduction of processions on the old style. Skillful copies of old royal coaches were made to participate in the processions, since the original ones could not be taken out from the Museums where they are carefully stored, some of them being a few centuries old.

An industrial and commercial exhibition took place at the famous Black Horse Square and gorgeous electric lighting contributed to the general animation of the squares and avenues. Large business was done by the stands at the exhibition and many orders were placed with the most important firms of the capital by representatives of firms in the country who were attracted to the capital by the festivities.

The home press gives wide space to reports concerning this initiative which was crowned with entire success.

THE NATIONAL UNION

The National Union of Portugal is the national organization whose responsibility is to carry out by propaganda and by example the principles of the New State in Portugal. Organized by Dr. Salazar on his own principles, this institution has been responsible for gradually preparing the ground for the new administration and the new principles that now govern the Portuguese people.

The Congress coincided with the celebrations of the 8th anniversary of the new Government ascension to power and great manifestations were made on the occasion, showing the people's gratitude and appreciation of the efforts employed by Dr. Salazar to rejuvenate the country morally and financially.

One of the outstanding acts of the population which clearly shows Dr. Salazar's popularity throughout the country was the presentation of certificates from 226 municipalities of Portugal and adjacent Islands (Azores and Madeira) whereby the Portuguese statesman is proclaimed a citizen of the respective townships.

This significant act shows eloquently that the hardships imposed to the country by Dr. Salazar through his finance policy far from being unfavourably commented by the people are fully appreciated owing to the splendid results that are now being achieved.

It is worth noticing that last year Dr. Salazar reduced the land and house tax by 10 per cent. and now another cut is made taxes by reducing the national salvation tax by another 10 per cent.

The prestige of this modest Dictator who avoids manifestations, who for many years would not appear at any public function unless absolutely called by political reasons, who has created a name as one of the outstanding world personalities of the day through his intelligence and profound knowledge of finance and world politics, who has shown the world what science can achieve when given freedom to act, is gradually increasing not only amongst his own countrymen but also throughout the world.

The best known continental journalists and the British Press do not spare any eulogistic references whenever they refer to him as the man who has saved a nation from moral, political and financial ruin.

Such writers as Paul Valéry, Gerard Bauer, and Callaux, the famous French politician, are amongst those who have largely appreciated the new status of the public administration of Portugal, and many of the French dailies in Paris have published extensive articles regarding the subject.

It is gratifying that a small nation like Portugal should begin now to attract the attention of the world, by the activity of its Government and by the general improvement of the country and its vast colonial empire.

BRITAIN'S AIR INFERIORITY

While Other States Are Arming

WARNING BY LORD LONDONDERRY

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

Britain's air policy was discussed by the Marquis of Londonderry, Secretary for Air, speaking on Saturday at a garden party given by the Marquis of Clydesdale, M.P., at Dungavel, Strathaven, Lanarkshire. He said:

"In spite of all our effort for peace, in spite of our example and precept, we find ourselves the only nation outside those bound to disarm by treaty, who have reduced our armaments. Everywhere else we are faced with increased forces and increased preparations of a warlike character.

"The last thing which we desire, and which we know this country desires, is to enter upon a race in armaments, but we cannot remain impassive while all other nations are increasing the strength of their forces. This increase is nowhere more menacing than in the air, and we know that the situation is causing grave disquietude.

"The country need have no reason to think that we shall not fulfil the plain undertaking which Mr. Baldwin gave in the House of Commons, in March last, when he said:

"If all our efforts fail, and it is not possible to obtain this equality in such matters as I have indicated, this Government will see to it that, in air strength and air power, this country shall no longer be in a position inferior to any country within striking distance of our shores."

"As recently as the middle of last month, Mr. Baldwin assured the country that preliminary work is being done, so that, if our fears should be realised, and it should be necessary to implement that pledge, not a single day will be lost.

Sands Running Out

"Mr. Baldwin, when he made those two important statements, was speaking, not for himself alone, but for the National Government. The country can rest assured that its air defence organisation, whether in the air or on the ground, will not be allowed to fall short of strength which the fulfilment of Mr. Baldwin's pledge demands.

"In my capacity as Air Minister, I am proud to be able to tell you that in quality the Royal Air Force is supreme. But we cannot continue in that state of inferiority in numbers, which, over a period of more than ten years, successive Governments have decided to be incompatible with the safety of the country.

"For eleven years we have held our hand, as part of our contribution to the solution of the problem of world-wide disarmament. The sands are fast running out.

Britain Stands for Peace
Mr. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, speaking at a fête at Balloch, under the auspices of the Dumbar-ton Unionist Association, on Saturday, said:

"The supreme interest of British foreign policy is peace, and the supreme contribution which British statesmanship can make is the continuous reliability of British foreign policy.

"Let it be known what we seek, and that we intend to continue to seek it, without any side-stepping and with all our authority, and we must at last realise our reward—a greater confidence between the nations. That is the policy which the Government is pursuing.

"We will stand by our engagements. We will fulfil our obligations, and thus we will work for peace. Foreign policy certainty is an essential element of success." (Cheers.)

Considerable difficulty was found in assessing the amount of his American estate.

It has now been fixed at £757,000—mostly stock of T. J. Lipton, Inc.

A DESERT FEUD

"The Mysterious Rider"

Zane Grey's "The Mysterious Rider" galloped his thundering stallion across the screen yesterday in a race to stir desperate ranchers to combat the land-owning greed of a crooked lawyer and a powerful financier. Kent Taylor, youthful Paramount find, has his first featured role in this new Grey story now at the Alhambra Theatre.

It is thrilling film, this tale of a desert feud growing out of the construction of Boulder Dam and its tremendous effect upon the heart-strings and purse-strings of the ranchers of the great Southwest and Kent Taylor faithfully embodies the attributes of other great Western heroes who have preceded him in Zane Grey roles.

He enacts the part of Wade Benton, himself a rancher, friend to hundreds of poor families who have settled in this arid area. When the news comes of the President's authorization of the great irrigation project of all time, all realize that they are about to become wealthy. The machinations, however, of Harkness (Living Pichel), a crooked attorney, and Mark King (Berton Churchill), the financier, who seek to evict the ranchers from their homes and appropriate the land, for themselves, put Benton in jail and turn his friends against him.

The coming of the Mysterious Rider, however, turns the tables on the schemers and encourages the ranchers to fight eviction. A charming love story between Taylor and Dorothy (Lona Andre) runs through the picture.

Lona Andre and Gail Patrick two of the entrants in the famous Panther Woman contest who received contracts from Paramount make their debut in this picture. Miss Andre as the leading lady and Miss Patrick as Wade Benton's sister, wife of one of the ranchers. Both acquit themselves admirably, more than justifying the contracts which Paramount has bestowed upon them. Warren Hymer, in the role of "Jitney Smith," delivers his usual "dumb" characterization in the manner that has won him distinction among the screen's foremost comedians.

"The Mysterious Rider" is a refreshing outdoor picture filmed in the country that Zane Grey selected for his story's locale. The huge picture of the modern great Southwest has been faithfully transcribed for the screen medium in all of its picturesque beauty, a surging up-to-the-minute story of the action and romance.

"THE BLUE SQUADRON"

A Mammoth Aviation Spectacle With Hundreds of Planes

The long awaited aviation spectacle, "The Blue Squadron," which was announced last year as one of First National's biggest forthcoming suppers, has been released. It is something new in the sphere of air drama, and here are some of the highlights:

Produced with the active co-operation of the Italian Government at enormous cost, the entire Italian Air Force takes part in the thrilling story which at one point shows over fifteen hundred planes.

Imagine the ancient and superbly beautiful city of Milan menaced by a horde of aerial destroyers, its beautiful cathedral ravaged by the most destructive power that the modern mind has conceived. A vivid camera impression of such a catastrophe is presented in the picture, as well as an even more startling one of the terrific conflict that might follow the attack of aeroplanes on a great naval base.

Squadrons roar emitting smoke screen as they drop their bombs and are simultaneously fired on by naval guns. For several moments are shown aerial battle scenes that are none the less awe-inspiring because they were staged during manoeuvres in times of peace—and, in fact, purposely to further the cause of peace.

Dozens of planes looping the loop, is yet another highlight of the production. Rising to only a moderate altitude, the planes swoop earthward until their wheels almost graze the soil, and then they repeat the process in a thrilling loop, all the time preserving wonderful flight formation.

"The Blue Squadron" demonstrates the courage and skill that is needed by the modern pilot to attain efficiency in the air.

Probably the most exciting scenes are reserved for the climax of the story itself. These follow an attempt on the altitude record by the pilot hero. After climbing many thousands of feet, an accident forces him to undertake a desperate parachute leap high above the Dolomites. The chute opens safely, but during its downward flight it catches in the topmost crag of an enormous cliff thousands of feet up. Almost as the parachute, tattered and useless, is about to tear itself free and hurl its wearer to certain death, he succeeds in clinging fly-like to the face of the cliff and pulling himself to safety.

When chances of rescue seem negligible, a planes sets out, fitted with skis. A heavy storm springs up and there follows a series of sensational scenes presenting the search of the plane as it braves the maze of peaks, avoiding a catastrophe by the merest inches.

Edmond Knight, who was given a long term contract by the Warner Bros. First National studios at Teddington, following his successful work in "The Bermondsey Kid," takes the leading role, with John Stuart, Grete Hansen and Cecil Parker in other prominent characterisation. Thousands of extra players take part in the many air-port sequences.

"PRIZEFIGHTER AND THE LADY"

At The Oriental Theatre

All the glamour, colour and thrills of the prize ring are realistically on display in "The Prizefighter and the Lady" the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Max Baer, who is paired with Myrna Loy in the new picture, proves himself as great a lover as he is a fighter. Wherever there is Baer, there is movement. He is never for a moment still. One watches him, making love to beautiful Myrna Loy or battling with giant Primo Carnera in an epic ten-round fight and one wonders about the source of such tremendous energy. And Baer is graceful as he is active. Tall, with extremely broad shoulders, he has

LAURA LA PLANTE TO MARRY IN PARIS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

Miss Laura La Plante, the American film star, has arrived in Paris by air from London with Mr. Irving Agher, a director of Warner Brothers Film Company. The witnesses will be Mr. James Walker, former Mayor of New York, and Miss Betty Compton, who travelled in the same aeroplane.

Miss La Plante was one of the stars of the silent films. She has just taken the principal part in an English film, "The Church Mouse," which is shortly to be released.

a wasp-like waist and long, supple legs.

A great fight is on view in the picture. A great fight and a great love story, against the background of thudding fists and the barking guns of Willie Ryan's gang of

SON OF A SAILOR

At The Alhambra

In "Son of a Sailor" Joe E. Brown's latest comedy, which opens to-morrow at the Alhambra Theatre, the comedian plays the part of a bragging gob, whose quick wits serve him when his boasting gets him into trouble. Pitted against a tough hombre in the naval boxing championships, Joe is forced to resort to a couple of tricks not included in the Marquis of Queensbury rules.

But Joe's antics in the prize-fight sequence produce just one of the hilarious sequences in a comedy hailed as one of the funniest the First National comic has made. A fine cast including Jean Muir, Frank McHugh, Thelma Todd, Noel Francis and many others support Joe E. Brown in "Son of a Sailor."

ECHOES OF 1861

32-Macao's Trade Decline.

Being one of the pleasure party that left this port for Macao on Saturday in the steamer Governor General, we proceed as in duty bound to give some account of the trip: as well as such of our ruminations, observations and discoveries, as we imagine will form acceptable information to our readers.

As for Macao itself, the trade has dwindled to the very shortest span, we do not think it was ever at so low an ebb since 1835-37. The revenue seems to be large. This arises thus: The Portuguese flag claims jurisdiction over the settlement, and although neither its moral nor physical power justifies the pretension, the assistance of the British, French and American naval forces having always been available in time of need, when any demonstration on the part of the Chinese, despite the provocation, has been successfully resisted. The consequence is that the place has become partly an asylum for the outcast; and partly a sort of Baden-Baden where the moral restraint of the Chinese law is removed. The revenue is simply a tax on outlaws and upon the indulgence of those immoralities which the Chinese law forbids. Thus there is a tax on gaming, a tax on brothels, a tax on opium, and until the evil was shouted down, a tax on man-stealing. To call the place a colony is a misnomer: it forms no more a part of the body politic of Portugal than an iceberg. It is simply a settlement used for the propagation of vice to the end that the Chinese being protected in the indulgence of their immoral propensities, may be despoiled by gaming fees, brothel fees, opium fees and manstealing fees. And this forsooth is to be taken as a sample of European institutions, and conducive to the spread of Christianity!

Under such a state of things it need surprise no one if corruption rules the roost. There is hardly an intelligent Portuguese or Foreigner in the place who does not openly denounce the system of venality which is going on. To members of the Government who a few years since were absolutely poor, are now known to be enormously wealthy. The Governor interferes illegally with every branch of the administration, and no check can be provided to stop him—the superintendent of police is notoriously his creature, and we heard several parties declare that the latter named functionary had a private prison wherein torture was absolutely practised. The thing appears too monstrous for belief—all we know is that it is very generally believed in Macao.

ROWDY SEAMEN
FINEDDisobeying Captain's
Orders

Five Chinese seamen named Hau Shi Cheng, 23, Lau Tung Chuen, 23, Tsang Yuk Foo, 38, Wong Tak Chi, 20 and Hau Sang Ching, 20, who were employed by the Chinese compradore, as crew on board the British steamer, the s.s. Kalapoi, appeared before the Hon. G. F. Hole at the Marine Court yesterday morning, charged with breach of discipline by assaulting the ship's Captain, Mr. B. Griffiths last Thursday morning, while she was lying at Yau-mat.

The complainant, Captain B. Griffiths, told his Worship that at about 1.30 a.m. last Thursday morning, he was informed by the ship's Chinese compradore that several bags of rice had been stolen from the ship's hold. On hearing the message, he immediately accompanied the Chinese compradore to make a search round the ship. Afterwards he was informed that the several bags of rice were hidden in the room of the accused men. He then, with the Chinese compradore, went to ask the accused to open the door of their room for a search, but they all refused to listen what he said and tried to assault him (the Captain). Seeing this, he immediately told the Chinese compradore to fly a red flag as a signal to the Police, but the defendants, on observing the Police launch approaching, all attempted to run away through the gangway, but they were all stopped by the Police who finally had them all arrested.

The defendants pleaded not guilty and said that the bags of rice were bought by them from a certain rice-shop at Yau-mat. They also denied they assaulted the Captain. They simply asked him to give them permission to take some rice from the bags as samples for identification, but they were all refused permission to leave the ship.

After hearing the corroborative evidence given by the Chinese compradore, his Worship convicted the first three defendants and discharged the fourth and fifth accused with a caution, as they were not employed as crew of the ship, during the time of the assault, and in imposing a sentence of twelve weeks' hard labour on each of the first three defendants, he remarked that there was absolutely no excuse for their disorderly conduct. They had committed a very grave offence, for such an outrage accounted to mutiny, as all members of the crew are under the control of the Captain, and should obey his orders and observe discipline.

Around the CourtsMENTAL HOME GAOLOnly Government Doctor's Certificate Accepted

The hearing of the case in which Francis Lee of No. 15 Robinson Road is charged with having driven car No. 2382 without a licence and with without the permission of the owner Mr. B. A. Froux, has been fixed for Friday next at noon.

When the case was called yesterday, Lee failed to appear and Mr. Hamilton was on the point of estreating the bail of $1,500 when Mr. C.E.L. Grist appeared and intimated that he understood Mr. Hamilton had excused defendant from being present in Court.

Mr. Hamilton said he had certainly not given permission for defendant not to appear. He had informed Mr. Hugh Jones that he would grant a week's remand when the facts were put before him, and an application made.

Mr. Grist said there must have been some misunderstanding, because he understood from Mr. Hugh Jones that his Worship had agreed to dispense with defendant's attendance.

Mr. Hamilton said that another thing he wished to make clear was that he was not interested in a report from any foreign doctor. Defendant had either to go into the Mental Home or into gaol. The only certificate he would accept was from a Government Medical Officer.

Other Summonses

Lt. L.P. Moore, H.M.S. Proteus was summoned for having left his car, No. 3144, unattended in Pedder Street, outside the Union Insurance Company for eight minutes. He was cautioned.

The driver of a P.W.D. car, No. 872 was fined $20 for having overtaken and passed a bus and a tramcar in Whitfield, West of the Bay View Police Station.

Traffic Sergeant Morris stated that it was a particularly dangerous case of overtaking, because the bus was immediately behind the tramcar, and defendant could not have seen if anybody had run out in front of the tramcar.

HOUSEBREAKER GAOLED

Sentence of four months' hard labour was passed by Mr. J.B. Lee at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday on Kwong Chok, aged 43, unemployed, who was charged with breaking into No. 4 Hong Lok Street and with stealing a brown leather case containing 14 pieces of clothing costing $12 and $35 in cash.

It was stated that defendant gained admittance into the house by prising open the lock of the door and went into a cubicle where he obtained the case. He was strolling casually down the stairs when he met an old woman, the mother of the complainant. She recognised the case and stopped him. A constable was sent for and after further enquiry defendant was taken into custody.

WARDEN FINED $100

For Trafficking with Prisoners

A fine of $100, or in default, two months' hard labour was the sentence passed by Mr. Macfadyen yesterday on Warden Feroz Khan, aged 24, who was charged with having taken a letter and two boxes of Chinese medicine pills into Victoria Gaol without the authority of the Superintendent.

Defendant having pleaded guilty, Acting Assistant Chief Warden Paine said that the accused was searched yesterday at 1.15 p.m. He produced two boxes of pills and a paper containing Chinese characters.

His Worship asked if it were not a fact that under the section, a conviction also meant dismissal.

Mr. J. W. Franks replied that dismissal was automatic of the Court conviction. He said that trafficking with prisoners in any form was a very serious contravention of prison discipline.

The defendant claimed that someone else placed the things in his pocket.

Mr. Franks: He had no permission to bring them into the prison. We had his boxes searched when suspicion arose. The man was searched because we discovered the prisoners in the laundry paying particular attention to his clothing, which seemed rather suspicious.

Mr. Franks related other circumstances which he said showed that the defendant did not take the things in for himself.

CLAIM FOR $1,000

Alleged Libel and Slander

Among the cases called before Mr. Justice Jackson at the Summary Court yesterday was one in which a claim of was made $1,000 damages for libel and slander.

The plaintiff was Liu Kwan of Sun Hing Street, Cheung Chau and the defendant Kwong Ip of the Tin San Shop, also of Cheung Chau.

Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. M. W. Lo for the defendant.

On behalf of the defendant, Mr. Lo asked for fuller particulars of the alleged libel. Mr. Silva replied that the libel was contained in a letter addressed to the Inspector General of Police.

The case was adjourned to Chambers for further discussion.

PO PIU CARRIER

Arrested in Fat Hing Street, a Chinese woman, 34 years of age, was found, upon being searched, to have been carrying 2,559 Po Piu tickets in her possession.

Brought before Mr. Macfadyen yesterday the woman was fined $2,500 or in default, three months' hard labour.

ASSAULTING A CONSTABLE

On charges of having hawked preserved fruit without a licence and of assaulting an Indian constable in Leighton Hill Road, Lam Chung-bue was fined in all $29 or, in default, 37 days' hard labour, by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday.

Defendant denied both summonses, saying that his mother was carrying the bags of fruit, and he was following behind. The constable struck him on his head, and in so doing damaged his watch.

Harkar Singh, an Indian constable, stated that he arrested defendant who was selling olives. Defendant struck him on the face, and a struggle ensued during which his watch was damaged.

LATE MR. HEEZ MOORE

Death Caused By Drowning

A verdict of death from drowning while under the influence of an epileptic fit, with no suspicious circumstances, attached, was returned by Mr. Lee, sitting as Coroner at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, when an inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. B. J. de Hees Moore, who was found dead in his bath at the Airline Hotel on the morning of June 21, was held.

Medical evidence was given in the course of which it was pointed out that deceased was in the habit of taking a drug called "luminal" which had the effect of preventing epileptic fits, but which taken in quantities was likely to produce sleep to which the patient might easily have fallen into while taking his bath.

Dr. Nelson Jones of the Peninsula Hotel stated in evidence that he was called to the Airline Hotel at about 8.15 a.m. on the morning of June 21. He found a body, the deceased's, lying in a bedroom, and gave it two injections of camphor and strychnine, but while doing so discovered that Mr. Moore was dead. Witness made the usual examination after death and found that there were no marks of violence, the face and neck being sufficed, and death being due to drowning.

Deceased's Doctor

Dr. J. C. Macgowan said he had been acquainted with the deceased who had been a patient of his. Witness first saw Mr. Moore in 1924 when he was consulted on epilepsy. According to a statement made by the deceased to witness the former said he had been suffering from epilepsy practically all his life. He was undoubtedly an epileptic.

"He took a drug called luminal to prevent these fits but he very often forgot to take a dose and was frequently subjected to epileptic fits. He took the drug twice a day, one tablet in the morning and one in the evening. It is quite possible that while the deceased was in an epileptic fit he took an overdose of the drug which caused him to fall asleep in his bath," concluded Dr. Macgowan.

BIG LOCAL SWEEP

I am sure those who take any interest at all in racing in Hong-kong will be glad to hear that the Jockey Club is conducting another big sweep on the Plover Bay Stakes to be held in September. These tickets at $1 each should prove immensely popular and it will be recalled that tickets in the Jockey Stakes which were drawn for in June last were the objects of a great last minute rush. Although it is too early to make any predictions, the indications are that the new $1 sweep will prove even more successful than its predecessor and that there is every likelihood of the whole 100,000 tickets being taken up. The change from $10 tickets to $1 on big local sweeps has proved definitely popular and after the September drawing there is still time to conduct one more big sweep for December, prior to the Annual Race Meeting next year.

RABIES' OUTBREAK

During the week the authorities have intensified the measures taken against stray and unlicensed dogs and as the question of rabies is still largely before the public, the tightening up of the regulations are all to the good and must have the support of every right-thinking citizen. It must be remembered that every dog which behaves in a vicious manner is not rabid, but neither the dog-owner nor the public can afford to take a chance. In Tak Shing Street last week, a dog bit two different persons and as it could not be captured, was duly shot. Examination showed that the animal was not rabid. Some people would argue that the shooting was too drastic a step to take, but with the rabies outbreak still in the Colony, the authorities are quite right in destroying any dog which goes about biting people. In spite of all the measures taken, further instances of people having been bitten were reported during the week. More co-operation by dog-owners is indicated.

THE NEW TERRITORIES

The very interesting report on the New Territories for the year 1933, drawn up by Mr. E. H. Williams, District Officer, North, provides food for thought. Apparently the farmers in the New Territories did not do too well last year. The drop in the selling price of rice, coupled with the fact that the drought accounted for the first crop, while the second crop was late, did not help matters. The really interesting part of the report, however, lay in the fact that the fisheries industries suffered heavily following the injurious effect of the customs duty on the import of dried fish into China. It is sufficient to show how much handicap is imposed on those engaged in this industry when it is realised that the duty is greater than the value of the fish.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS

The villagers of the New Territories have now been persuaded to register births and deaths. It is interesting to read that a number of prosecutions had first to be undertaken before the people made any move towards registration. Seemingly the villagers held some idea at the back of their minds that there was an ulterior motive behind such registration. Another interesting piece of information is the fact that the electric light supply has been extended to Castle Peak and Shataukok but that "electricity is not being used to any great extent in the villages nor is it likely to be until some reduction is made in the price of current."

RELIGIOUS KNOWLEDGE

The prize distribution on Saturday last at the Wah Yan College was a tribute to Chinese Catholic Young Men's Society, who invited entrants from all the Catholic Vernacular Schools. As a result no fewer than eighteen schools participated and some of the elder children touched a very high standard. These contests in religious knowledge between various schools help to stimulate interest in the children and it is hoped, so I understand, to make a yearly feature of it.

EFFECTS OF TRADE DEPRESSION

The trade depression is showing its effect in a peculiar way. I understand that the attendance at the North Point Bathing Beaches is much smaller this year than in the past year, despite the fact the hot season is now right upon us. The fact of the matter is that many people find it difficult even to spend the little extra on tram fare each day. In another direction too the trade depression has had a curious effect. It has increased the number of street hawkers. Dealers in various articles probably feel that if people could not be induced to go out shopping then the shop will have to be brought to their doors. Consequently in the Chinese parts of the city, all kinds of commodities are being hawked.

PREVENTION OF SMUGGLING

Special Revenue Force.

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 6. The Native Goods Sales Office is recruiting 50 revenue officers to check smuggling in sugar and tungsten, which are sold as government monopolies. Among the requirements is a shop guarantee in order to prevent fraud and acceptance of bribery on the part of the revenue officers. The sale of these goods brings considerable profits to the government sales office, hence there are smuggled goods to compete with them.

Some arrests were made, but still smugglers are busy consigning sugar and other agricultural products to Canton without paying tax or in violation of the monopoly. Sugar is secretly imported into Canton from Macao, Hong Kong, and elsewhere. Tungsten is smuggled from Southern Kiangsi and Northern Kwangtung, where they are mined. Owing to increasing demand for tungsten by armament works abroad, the prices of tungsten have risen high in recent months. Therefore, smuggling of this mineral is also on the increase.

As the sugar monopoly has practically stamped out private sale and proves detrimental to the sugar business, private retail sale is now allowed. Sugar merchants may be permitted to obtain sugar from the Native Goods Sales Office, if they can furnish a cash guarantee and undertake to sell a certain quantity a month.

This concession, is to prevent smuggling of sugar. Because of the monopoly and the heavy tax on imported sugar, the price of this commodity is very high here.

DR. ANNIE BESANT'S SUCCESSOR

Dr. Arundale To Be Elected?

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

It is generally believed in Madras that Dr. George Sydney Arundale will be elected president of the Theosophical Society in succession to the late Dr. Annie Besant. Voting has already taken place, and voting papers are still being received from all centres. The result of the election will be officially announced at the opening of the society's conference at Madras to-morrow.

Dr. Arundale, Bishop of the Liberal Catholic Church in Australia, was born in Surrey, educated at St. John's College, Cambridge, and married the daughter of an Indian engineer. He is principal of the Central Hindu College,

CORRESPONDENCE

[All letters intended for publication must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not for publication, unless so desired, but as evidence of good faith. —Ed.]

THE RABIES OUTBREAK

[The Editor, The "Hong Kong Daily Press"]

Dear Sir,—In view of the present outbreak of Rabies in Kowloon and in the New Territories I am desirous by the General Committee of the Hong Kong S.P.C.A. to appeal to every dog owner in the Colony to co-operate to the fullest extent with the Authorities in their strenuous endeavours to prevent the further spread of this dread disease. There is no actual cause for panic but every reasonable precaution possible should be taken by owners to control their dogs and thus avoid their being needlessly exposed to infection or to become a potential source of danger to human beings or to other dogs. This is not only a duty to the Community but also a right step in the interests of their dogs and themselves. Many owners have secured protection for their dogs by serum inoculation.

In ordinary circumstances the S.P.C.A. as such does not concern itself with domestic animals and birds that are not cruelly neglected or ill-treated except for the rendering of such assistance as may be found practicable within the limited means at its disposal in the treatment of sick animals.

The main efforts of the Society are directed to the securing of fair treatment for animals and poultry which are generally destined as food for man. This work is largely carried out by educational methods but prosecutions in the Courts in certain cases are unavoidable and necessary. Among other duties the Society's inspectors supervise a considerable amount of the loading and unloading of animals and poultry from ships, junks and lorries. The Society is much indebted to the Police for their ready assistance and interest in the welfare of animals.

The General Committee appeals to the public for their generous support in their work on behalf of those that cannot plead their own cause.

Thanking you for your courtesy in permitting me the use of your columns.

Yours faithfully,
H. M. Cockle,
The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals

NEW DOG'S HOME

A Meeting of the Hong Kong Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held in the Private Room of Messrs. Lane, Crawford, Ltd. on Wednesday, the 4th July at 5.15 p.m.

Mr. J. Russell presided and there were also present Miss C. Angus, Mrs. Hayden, Mrs. Jefferies, Mrs. Loseby, Miss J. Phelps, Mrs. de Seidebeck, Mr. D. Davies, Mr. Ervine-Andrews, Mr. J. B. Macdonald, Mr. Pestonji, Mr. L. Ross, Mr. de Seidebeck, Mr. Veliki, Mr. H. M. Cockle (Secretary). The present outbreak of Rabies in Kowloon and the New Territories was fully discussed and it was agreed that an appeal be made to every dog owner in the Colony to co-operate to the fullest extent with the Authorities in their strenuous endeavours to prevent the further spread of this disease. Serum inoculation is now available at the Dogs Home for owners who desire to secure this protection for their dogs, and it is hoped that the public will receive benefit from this facility. The Society has for many years advocated the use of the Humane Killer in the Slaughter Houses of the Colony and wish to acknowledge with appreciation the action of the General Authorities in passing the recent legislation which compels the use of mechanical means in the slaughter of sheep and goats.

The building of the New Dogs Home is rapidly progressing and the Society will shortly have at its command a home worthy of the cause for which it is working. It is thought that many would avail themselves of the opportunity of contributing to a Society which is accomplishing such valuable work in the Colony and any donation however small will be thankfully acknowledged and it may be sent with the confidence that it will relieve some unknown animal's suffering.

and late Deputy Chief Scout of the Indian Boy Scouts' Association. He is also a freeman of the City of London.

SEQUEL TO MURDER

Two Men Detained

In connection with the murder of Chan Man, a vegetable gardener who was found terribly battered in his hut at Heung Che Village, Castle Peak, on Thursday two suspects have been arrested. They were said to be father and son, Mok Ting Kwan and Mok Kam Hing, and lived in Tai Kok Tsui Village, Mongkok.

The cause of the murder was said to be due to deceased's wife who was alleged to have been enticed away by the younger suspect. The unfortunate man was found with a large wound in the back of the head, two broken ribs and a broken spleen which were said to have been caused by an iron bar and a stick.

ANOTHER MAN BITTEN

Incident In Wellington Street

A black chow dog, belonging to the tenants of the third floor of 103, Wellington Street has been sent to Kennedy Town for observation.

The dog is alleged to have bitten a man named Tam Lin Chau at noon on Thursday, according to a police report.

CANTON NEWS ITEMS

General Huang's Visit

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 6.

On behalf of the National Government, General Huang Shao Hsiung, Minister of Interior, will come to Canton from Kwangsi to interview General Pai Hsiung Hsi, leading Kwangsi military commander. The purpose of this trip is to win the support of General Pai Hsiung Hsi in the foreign policy of the National Government.

General Pai and the Kuomintang veteran leaders have criticized the Japan policy of Nanking and particularly the resumption of through train service between China and Manchuria. General Huang Shao Hsiung plans to restore harmony between Canton and Nanking.

While at Yung Yuen near Wuchow, Minister Huang is reported to have met Marshal Li Chai Sum, former military head of Kwangtung.

Nanking Promises Funds

It is said that General Chiang Kai Shek, President of the Military Affairs Commission, has promised to remit $5,000,000 to Canton as funds for the military defence of Kwangtung. At a start $1,000,000 will be remitted and the balance will be sent later on.

As soon as the instalment is received, the money is to be spent in fortifying Hainan Island, which is vulnerable owing to its detached position. This sum, when remitted, will assuage Canton-Nanking relations.

Canton Silk For U.S.A.

The Silk Improvement Bureau will send 50 bales of raw silk of the best quality for sale in the United States. An agent will act as 'super-cargo' and sell the silk direct to American consumers and pave the way for the recapture of the American market.

The agent will remain in the United States for six months in order to study market conditions and will submit reports to the Silk Bureau.

Reds Active Again

Communists in Southern Kiangsi are planning an attack to recapture Kwan Mun Ling. About 6,000 Red troops under "General" Yip Kim Ying are leading the charge from Hui Chang.

The military here is prepared for the onslaught, and all the divisional and army commanders here are returning to the Kiangsi front and other outposts to-day or to-morrow.

RUMOURS DENIED

Officers And The Telephone Hoax

The rumours that were current yesterday that two officers of H.M.S. Berwick had been questioned on suspicion of being connected with the telephone hoax which was said to have caused great annoyance to the public during the past few days, have been officially denied.

H.M.S. Berwick left for Home at 4 p.m. yesterday and was given a hearty send-off by the ships in harbour. Appropriate music was provided by the band of the South Wales Borderers, and friendly feeling was evident throughout.

FOREIGN AREAS IN CHINA

Social Reform Retarded

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

The International Labour Conference continued its discussion of the Director's report to-day.

The most interesting speech was made in Chinese by Mr. An Fu Ting, the Chinese workers' delegate, who made a great impression on the conference.

He described the contract system in China and some other Asiatic countries under which the workers, instead of being employed directly, are engaged and paid by contractors. This system, he said, was inhuman and cruel, for it subjected the workers to a double exploitation. The Chinese Government had done something to get rid of it outside the foreign settlements and concessions, but inside them it still flourished, because there the Chinese had no political or judicial authority.

Not only were the workmen in the settlements and concessions sweated but the employers outside them were put at a disadvantage by having to compete with cheaper labour. Factory inspection had been introduced in China but the Shanghai foreign settlement and concession resisted its application, and it was impossible for the Chinese Government to apply it there. The foreign settlements were "profitable industrial centres for foreign employers, where they did business for a number of years and then returned home with bank-notes soaked with the sweat and blood of the Chinese workers."

He would not go into the question of extra-territoriality in itself, but he would urge that social legislation should be exempt from it. The result of the action of the foreign settlements and concessions was that the Chinese Government was not able to fulfil its obligations as a member of the International Labour Organisation.

It now seemed likely that the employers of the settlements and concessions would oppose the institution of a weekly rest which had been enacted by the Chinese Government.

The number of workmen employed in the Shanghai Settlement and Concession was about 200,000, and there were many others employed in settlements and concessions in other parts of China.

He spoke of the desirability of holding an Asiatic conference, as recommended by the I.L.O. in 1931.

Mr. Hsiung Kuo And Barrie's Plays

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, June 20.

The long blue robe he wears has made Mr. Hsiung Kuo a distinctive figure at the meetings of the P.E.N. Congress in Edinburgh this week, writes a correspondent. Hsiung tells me that he was first attracted to the plays of Barrie—the translation occupied him for seven years—by their "refinement of style." With the exception of "What Every Woman Knows," which he thinks "too Scotch" for China, he believes that Barrie's work has universal appeal. Curious he should make that exception, for hasn't it just won English laurels for the Barr and Stroud Dramatic Club?

LICENSING LAWS

Early in June there was held in London a meeting of conservative clubmen, under the auspices of the Association of Conservative Clubs. They demanded the institution of a State lottery and also changes in the licensing laws. Since the war the British Government, at home as well as abroad in the colonies, seems to have deliberately overlooked these foundations of liberty upon which the constitution is based. During the war under D.O.R.A. (Defence of the Realm Act) were introduced certain measures, which remained after the war. The act applied even to such harmless affairs as chocolates and cigarettes. Chocolates could not be sold after a certain hour, and anyone going to the theatre had to take his chocolates with him. The cigarettes were the subject of an even more ludicrous exhibition of the official mind. It was forbidden to sell cigarettes after 11 p.m., but one could put sixpence into a slot machine and obtain them.

The licensing laws were mostly applied by the local authorities and resulted in the most incongruous regulations. A man wishing to fly to Paris from London, had to go to the Haymarket office of Imperial Airways in order to catch the bus taking him to the Croydon aerodrome. This bus left at 11 a.m. The regulations in force there prevented him from having a drink before 11 a.m., but if he were on the south side of the river he could have had one at 10.30 a.m. Supposing he were to cross the street to the new, defunct, Junior Army and Navy Co-operative Society's store, he could buy a bottle of whiskey, but he could not remove it from the premises until 11 a.m. He therefore went to Croydon aerodrome by the bus, and on arrival at the station at 11.30 a.m. he might have asked for a drink in the station bar. There he would have been told that no drinks are served before noon. This was the time of departure of the air liner. Being inside the aerodrome he might have thought his troubles were over. On the contrary the attendant inside would have told him, "No drinks are to be served before crossing the channel." This would bring the time up to 12.30 p.m.

The case is a specific one and it shows how regulations almost attack the liberty of the subject, because during all that period people not far off might be drinking, and anybody was at liberty to bring his own drink with him. Our individual would have done so had he known what obstruction the regulations might cause. It is extremely dangerous to give arbitrary powers to officials, because abuse is sure to arise sooner or later. Any matter affecting the liberty of the subject should most certainly pass through parliament, and then it becomes the will of the people. Officials would then be doing their constitutional duty of administering the country according to that will, and not according to any private theories of their own.

What about Hong Kong? This is not a matter affecting the granting of licenses, because someone must decide whether an applicant is a suitable person to have such a license. Once the license is obtained the times of opening should be a matter for the licensee. If he can get custom he would naturally remain open to have that custom. If not then he would probably not remain open. The matter would be in the hands of the people who are not compelled to do anything they do not want to do. Hong Kong has the reputation amongst those who pass through, of being one of the duller spots in the Far East. This beautiful island which could without much advertisement have developed into a renowned winter resort, cannot even keep tourists ashore for the evening. Many of them prefer to spend the evening aboard their ship rather than to stay in a town which at an early hour of the night depresses them. The

PRISONERS ESCAPE

One Recaptured: One Still At Large

SENSATION AT THE G.C.H.

A sensational escape from police custody was successfully effected by Leung Sing, 39, who was recently arrested for returning from banishment.

At the time of his arrest in Yaumatei, Leung jumped out of the verandah of the house which was raided by the police, and in doing so injured his leg. His injuries were of such a nature that he had to be removed to the prison ward at the Government Civil Hospital.

Meanwhile another man who was found loitering at the Claremont Hotel was admitted to hospital with a number of abrasions and it would appear that this second man, whose name was Yeung Wai, acted in conjunction with Leung Sing in their attempt to escape.

It is understood that in addition to other precautions, there are always a couple of police constables on duty at the prison ward in the hospital. Escape from the prison ward being impossible, Leung Sing devoted his attention to study other possible means of egress. He ultimately decided that the bathroom afforded him such a means and although details are lacking as to how the task was accomplished, he managed to remove one of the iron bars in the window of the bathroom and let himself out. Yeung Wai also chose that method to get out of hospital, but was arrested before he was clear of the hospital compound.

Lau Sing, so far, has eluded capture. As soon as it was discovered that a prisoner had escaped from custody no time was lost in spreading a net for him. All the possible means of exit from the Colony were watched last night while the police also lay in wait for the prisoner at places where he is likely to call for assistance.

The escaped man was arrested for returning from banishment.

EUROPEANS' MAD ESCAPE

Steal Taxi On The Taiipo Road

An escapade in the New Territories by two Europeans, which resulted in one motor cycle being smashed up and a taxi driver losing his taxi, came to the notice of the Police yesterday. The description of the two men concerned are with the authorities and it is hoped that an early arrest will be made.

At about 7.30 last evening two Europeans called at the house of Mrs. W. E. Clarke at Taiipo. It was obvious that they had met with an accident and they explained that they had been concerned in a motor cycle crash. Mrs. Clarke attended to the men's injuries, one of whom had a broken arm. She did what she could for them and ultimately sent for a taxi.

The second part of the story is supplied by the driver of taxi No. 729, who in a report to the Police stated that he drove two Europeans from Mrs. Clarke's house at Taiipo towards Kowloon. At Taiipo village the fares asked him to stop, which he did. He was then immediately pounced upon by the two Europeans who dragged him away from his car and drove off.

The driver has given the police a full description of the two men and it is hoped that an early arrest will be made.

A few hours after the incident, the taxi was discovered abandoned at the fourth mile stone on the Taiipo Road. Apparently the men who had left it had not been away long for the engine was still warm and the headlights were still turning on.

tourist trade is not to be despised. It leads to many other forms of commerce. Publicity campaigns are carried out all over the world in order to catch the tourist trade. It would be only fair to those who work in Hong Kong, if the greatest latitude were to be given to the licensing regulations, on the principle that anything which may even seem to touch the liberty of the subject is objectionable to British principles.

BRITISH AND CHINESE CO-OPERATION

The Final Chapter: "When Hearts Are Straight"

In this examination of relations between the British and Chinese peoples I have brought forward some matter of considerable delicacy. That is why the subject must be treated philosophically. When the obvious is pointed out it is possible for those interested to do some thinking on their own behalf. Misunderstanding between the two races should be removed, nor is there any reason why such should exist except because of ignorance. In any situation there are always those who profit, and a good cause is very often turned into a sordid affair by such people. The Chinese people have always been too prone to criticise others without removing the roots of the evils which are ruining their country. The philosopher Mei several thousand years ago wrote that a country neglecting its scholars was doomed. Mencius a little later addressing a king, who had asked him what profit he expected by coming to see him a long distance, answered, "Why do you talk about profit? There is right and that is all." If the Chinese can learn from the foreigner the art of self-sacrifice, then they will have learnt something worth knowing. If the foreigners can learn from the Chinese how to suffer hardship in silence and patience, then they will have learnt something worth knowing. If between them they can learn that "face" does not rest in money, but in their civilisations then their education will have yet further progressed. How the fashion, that existed already amongst many foreigners, arose in Canton, I do not know. The change amongst the Chinese in ten years is very marked indeed, and that is that money and all its trappings is becoming more important than learning. If such an idea is to spread, the future of China is black indeed. It is probable that it will spread beyond the large towns, because the people are much too sensible to be blinded by falsities. One of the greatest lessons that China has learned in recent years, and taught to the world is that she must depend for patriotism and for her defence upon the people, and not upon leaders and moneyed classes. While leaders are talking, these people who spring from the soil, will defend their country with their bare hands if necessary. The organisation of corps armed with big swords to fight against rifle and machine gun, is no invention of any Chinese leader. It is a sign of the faith of the people in their civilisation. That is where the strength of China lies and the British should normally maintain contact with these people, by means of those Chinese who meet them daily. On both sides personal vanity and desire for gain has prevented this contact being made. The Chinese are such a democratic race that it is surprising to see pride obtain such a hold there. Many of the Emperor's ministers sprang from the soil and so did the scholars. Must a contact between two civilisations necessarily bring out what is bad? Probably the greatest indication that something is wrong somewhere on the side of the British, is the cleavage of opinion between merchant and missionary.

Noble-minded Merchants

When such men as the late Lord Inchcape ascribe all ills to the activities of the missionaries, he is also condemning his class the merchant. I do not wish to express an opinion on this matter, beyond noting its existence. There have been noble minded merchants, and there have been missionaries who lacked the qualities to carry the message to the Confucianists. There are Chinese who openly throw over their own civilisation, and there are those who serve their civilisation and keep silent. Misunderstandings are the result of the mixing together of many types of men.

This brings us down finally to the man himself. In certain matters much humanity has been shown. But a man is a man wherever he may be. The majority of the Chinese are poor but very human. Hongkong is heaped up with riches, much of which represents the sweat of China's people. It is obvious that a great work remains to be done, before evil is removed. When those amongst the Chinese who have received fortune's favours, bestir themselves for the people, not openly with trumpets, but privately for humanity, they will certainly move many British people. If the Chinese study and pride themselves openly on the civilisation which has made them, not as expounded by Chu Hsi, but as handed down through Confucius from the sages, King Wan and Duke Chau, then they will be building a house on rock. The best excuse that might be made for the Briton, is that seeing the Chinese so casual about his own civilisation and people, he himself becomes casual about the Chinese. I have said before and repeat it now that I do not think that firm relations can be founded on trade. Trade is an effect and not a cause. The base is deeper and depends upon the understandings of civilisations. This breeds face, not a false face of money, but a face due to character, such as may be had by the honest ploughman as well as the poor scholar or the wealthy trader, who realises that he has a responsibility to the people; not a responsibility to administer wealth according to his head, but according to that ancient law of both East and West, that of the heart.

When hearts are straight on both sides, confidence will be restored. A confidence where men respect each other and keep their words, without endless deceptions. It is upon such bases that relations and consequently trade may be fostered. But is such a state of affairs ever to exist? —C. M. Faure.

MAGAZINE BAN IN CHINA

Government Offers Explanation

London, July 6.

Reuters learns that the Chinese Government in replying to the British Legation regarding the postal ban on "Oriental Affairs," asserts that the magazine is consistently hostile and indirectly damaging to the Chinese Government. It also takes every opportunity to espouse recognition of Manchukuo and asserts that the Chinese population in Manchukuo would welcome recognition.

The Chinese Government welcomes friendly and constructive criticism, but malicious remarks preaching disloyalty to the government and racial animosity must be regarded differently, the reply states.

The ban must be regarded as a mild correction and can be lifted if the party concerned offers amendments to the Chinese Government.

The reply emphasises that the "China Critic" was banned on various occasions in the Straits and is still banned in Rangoon without the slightest explanation.—Reuters.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Peiping is about to experience its greatest innovation since the arrival of street cars in 1924. The telephone administration is preparing to install an automatic system. Except for those who sentimentalize over the picturesque backwardness of the former capital, few will lament the change. It is estimated that Peiping has about 18,000 telephone subscribers. This is about 10,000 less than in 1927, the number having decreased sharply after the removal of the seat of government to Nanking in 1928.

AFTERMATH TO IRISH ELECTIONS

Violent Attack On Blue Shirts

Dublin, July 6. The recent peaceful local government elections are having a stormy aftermath, much violence being displayed towards the opposition, particularly the Blue Shirts.

A meeting addressed by General O'Duffy at Ballina, County Mayo, was held under a continuous barrage of stones, while the hall in which the Blue Shirts intended to hold a dance was invaded and all musical instruments destroyed, while the floor was tarred.

Police and military reinforcements were rushed from Cork City to quell the violent attack upon the Blue Shirts holding a dance at Donoughmore.

The Rev. Father Cashel, of Tipperary, where political feeling is running high, has for several months made earnest appeals to both sides to call a truce and to abandon all meetings and parades in the interests of peace.—Reuter.

RIOTS IN SAN FRANCISCO

Savage Fighting Of Strikers

San Francisco, July 5. Three strikers are dying and many are injured in hospitals here as the result of clashes with the police when the eight-week old strike of longshoremen assumed a very ugly character.

A huge crowd bombarded the police with bricks forcing the police to fire. A battle ensued for the industrial quarter of the city, which changed hands several times, the strikers setting fire to inflammable objects to cover their retreat.

The Governor ordered 5,000 troops, armed with the new vomiting gas which disables victims for two days, to stand by.—Reuter.

San Francisco, July 6. After daylong battles, in which 20 persons were shot, one fatally, and many others injured, the police were victorious. The National Guard were ordered to the waterfront to protect State property.—Reuter.

UNION'S THREAT. San Francisco, July 6. Hostilities ended in the evening when the National Guard armed with machine guns occupied the waterfront, but the Union threaten to call a general strike.

NEW WIMBLEDON CHAMPION

Fred Perry Triumphs

BEAT CRAWFORD IN STRAIGHT SETS

London, July 6. Fred Perry, England's No. 1 player, added to his laurels to-day when he beat Jack Crawford (holder) in the final of the singles championship in Wimbledon in straight sets, the scores being, 6-3, 6-0 and 7-5. Perry has thus realised his dearest ambition, for although he had beaten the redoubtable Australian in America as well as in Australia, this is the first time that he was successful in the Headquarters of the tennis world. Playing magnificently, Perry won in 65 minutes. He thus became the first English champion at Wimbledon since 1909.

Crawford gave the impression that he was going to repeat his last year's success when he took three games off the reel in the first set but thereafter, in the most amazing fashion, Perry asserted himself and took twelve games in succession to claim the first and second sets.

UNCANNY TENNIS. In the second stanza, Perry played what might be described as "uncanny tennis." He was complete master of the situation and seemed to possess a sixth sense, giving him knowledge of the Australian's every move, made light of his keenest thrusts and forced him into error after error. He continually "aced" his opponent and took the set after play had been in progress for only ten minutes.

The third set was the most evenly contested of the three and the players took the games alternately. Perry was leading at 5-4 when Crawford shook him with three very deep lobs amidst tense excitement. Nothing daunted, Perry took the lead again at 6-5 and in the twelfth game Crawford reached 40-love on his own service but by superb driving, Perry not only drew level but also forged ahead when Crawford hit one outside, giving Perry match point. Then came a most amazing incident. Crawford sent over a magnificent service but was faulted for the first time in the match. Perry took the point, the game, the set and the match and became the first English champion in Wimbledon since 1909.—Reuter.

FRENCH NAVAL STRENGTH

Another Ship To Be Built

Paris, July 5. The French Senate, by 218 votes to 22, yesterday passed the Naval Construction Bill already adopted by the Chamber of Deputies, providing for a second ship of the Dunkerque class, 26,500 tons, a destroyer and two submarines.

The Minister of Marine, M. Plet, has announced that another capital unit will be laid down before the 1935 Naval Conference. He was unable to say whether it would be of the Dunkerque class, or a 35,000 ton ship, but he hoped it would not be the latter.

The announcement was presumably influenced by Italy's recent decision to lay down two new 35,000 ton capital ships.—Reuter.

PEDRO BLANCO CASE

Privy Council Arguments

London, July 5. Five Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, headed by the Lord Chancellor, have decided, after three days' arguments by Government lawyers, to ponder the problem of whether robbery is essential to conviction for piracy.

They will publish their answer later.—Reuter.

The point has arisen from the trial in Hongkong of 12 men alleged to have made a piratical attack on a junk on the high seas off Pedro Blanco. The accused were acquitted by the Full Court after arguments by Mr. Hin Shing Lo for the defence, the jury's verdict of guilty being set aside.

Madame Curie, the famous French Radium Investigator, passed away at Valence last Wednesday. She was to have been one of the guests of honour at the fourth International Radiology Congress to be held at Zurich this month.

London, July 6. The House of Commons, by 104 votes to 23, adopted a formal resolution confirming the recent changes in the Silk Duties.—Reuter.

STOP PRESS

Colombo, June 6. Imposition of anti-Japanese textile quotas is hanging fire owing to a difference between the Home and Ceylon Governments.

The Home Government refuses to give assurances for preferences on certain Ceylonese products. The Ceylon Government is continuing negotiations; meanwhile it is understood that the Ceylonese counter-proposals are unsatisfactory because they are not provided with a sufficiently large tariff as substitute for quotas.

British experts consider that a tariff of at least 7 cents per pound on Japanese textile is necessary.—Reuter.

REGULATION OF TIN

Attitude Of Belgium

London, July 5. The Amsterdam correspondent of the "Financial Times" declares that Belgian adherence to the tin regulation scheme will probably be officially announced at the meeting of the International Tin Committee at the Hague, on July 10.

Negotiations are being carried on with China, who is the only important producer still outside the scheme.—Reuter.

VON SCHLEICHER AND FRANCE

Berlin, July 5. London reports emanating from a foreign news agency and concerning the late General von Schleicher's alleged associations with the French political and military circles have created a considerable sensation here but are vigorously refuted by the French Embassy which in a statement issued here on Thursday stresses that they were in a position to "most decisively deny this absurd fable."—Transocean. HENDREN AGAIN THE HERO

England In Strong Position: First Day Of Third Test

O'REILLY IN EXCELLENT FORM WITH BALL

The opening day of the third Test was featured by the flickiness of Dame Fortune who first favoured Australia and then England.

Wyatt won the toss and elected to bat and after England were given a good start by Walters and Sutcliffe, O'Reilly in an inspired spell took three wickets with four balls. Then Hendren and Sutcliffe put a stop to the rot, but the cream of cricket was seen when Leyland joined the Middlesex star and they put on 191 for the fifth wicket, failing to equal the record by the narrow margin of one run. Hendren made 132 and was given a great ovation as he returned to the pavilion.

Bradman and Chipperfield both left the field on account of illness and at the close of play, England were in a strong position, scoring 355 for the loss of only 5 wickets.

Manchester, June 6. The weather was brilliant but very hot when the third Test match between England and Australia commenced here to-day. The wicket was perfect and the crowd that attended was estimated at 25,000 some of whom kept an all-night vigil outside the gates to make sure of seating accommodation. England won the toss and elected to bat and as was in the cases of the first two matches, Walters and Sutcliffe were sent out to open the innings.

These two batsmen shaped very well against the "fresh" Australian bowling and in the short period of 48 minutes had sent the half-century up. Disaster was soon knocking hard at the door for just after Walters had reached his fifty, a stop was made for drinks. The umpire then discovered a defect in the ball and this was changed—with tragic results for England for with the new ball O'Reilly took wickets, with his first, second and fourth balls—thus narrowly missing the "hat-trick."

WALTERS BRILLIANT. Walters once again showed that he is definitely a bat for big occasions. He indulged in some crisp-hitting and his shots were executed with such delightful freedom that he was given a great ovation as he walked back to the Pavilion after he had scored 52. He scored eight boundaries and brought off some nice shots past

After the lunch interval, Sutcliffe and Hendren began to play themselves 'in' again and runs, as a result, came rather slowly for some time. When the total stood at 19, Sutcliffe's innings came to an end—he was caught by Chipperfield, in the slips, off O'Reilly. Sutcliffe's innings was invaluable and flawless, the Yorkshireman indulging in some pretty cover-driving and leg shots. He found the ropes on eight occasions.

About this stage Bradman and Chipperfield both left the field on account of sore throats and their places were taken by Bromley and Barnett respectively. Maurice Leyland joined the Middlesex "ever-green" and as a result the spectators were treated to brighter cricket.

"COPYBOOK CRICKET"

Hendren was plodding along slowly and was given a hearty round of applause when he reached his half-century in 110 minutes. Leyland played more aggressive cricket and was rapidly catching-up his partner's score. He was also given a good round of applause when he got his 50 in 95 minutes and when a stop was made for tea, they were still "going strong," being 80 and 50 (both not out) respectively, the total standing at 253 for 4.

After the tea interval, Hendren and Leyland continued to play pretty cricket, and it was not until they had carried the score to 340 for 5 that a separation was effected. Hendren was caught and bowled by O'Reilly for 132. He had been at the wicket for 235 minutes during which time he indulged in some joyous hooking, pulling and driving. He made 22 boundaries and was given a great ovation when he returned to the pavilion. He and Leyland added 191 for the fifth wicket, failing to equal the record by the narrow margin of one run.

Leyland joined Ames whose innings was a mixture of care and aggression. When stumps were drawn, the total stood at 255 for 5, Leyland being 93 not out while Ames was also undefeated for 4. Up to the present, Leyland had been batting for 2 hours.

LAWN BOWLS

To-day's League Games

Rain has interfered to a great extent with the lawn bowls games. A promising afternoon underpinned a sudden change, causing the players much disappointment. Apart from this play on a sodden green puts some players completely out of the form they show on a normal green.

In the senior games this afternoon, Craigengower "A" at Kowloon Dock and the Bowling Green team at Talkoo should not expect much difficulty in returning with the points. Civil Service travel to Club de Recreio, the chances being a keen game with a slight advantage on the Valley team in spite of playing away.

The Indians, Civil Service, Bowling Green Club, Yacht Club appear as the likely winners in the Junior division.

SWIMMING GALA OF C. B. S.

Champions In The Making

The annual swimming gala of the Central British School, was held yesterday morning at the European Y.M.C.A. Swimming Pool before a very large and enthusiastic gathering. Competition for the House Championship, which at the beginning looked like a win for Chocolate House, was very keen and the ultimate result was in doubt until the last event had been swum.

At one stage Blue House were fully 20 points in arrears of both Chocolate and Red Houses, but they gallantly pulled up in the last few events when excitement ran very high.

The standard of swimming displayed by the Intermediate classes of Boys and Girls was amazing, and I saw several potential champions in the making.

The diving was very good considering the ages of the entrants, particularly in the Junior School where several of the boys made very plucky and successful attempts off the high board.

The plunging was very good for 'School' and one girl reached over 45 feet while B. Hynes, who took the Boy's prize went to 47 feet.

The handicapping was extraordinarily good and the Staff are to be congratulated on their efforts which resulted in a splendid gala.

THIRD TEST MATCH INTEREST

London, July 5.
With each side having gained one victory, great interest is being shown in the third of the series of five Test Matches which begins at the Old Trafford ground, Manchester, to-morrow. The weather promises to remain fine and dry.

The teams will be finally selected to-morrow, but several English players who had been asked to hold themselves in readiness are reported unfit.

Yesterday, Paynter, the Lancashire left-hand batsman, was asked to be at Manchester in case any late eventualities may make his assistance desirable to England.

It is expected that Australia's batting strength will be increased by the inclusion of W. H. Ponsford, who was absent from the last Test through illness.—British Wireless.

London, June 20.
Next year there occurs the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Mark Twain. In anticipation of the event the International Mark Twain Society has produced a little book recording the views of seven famous Mark Twain "fans."

They are Signor Mussolini, Mr. Bernard Shaw, Mr. Galsworthy, M. Andre Maurois, Mr. G. K. Chesterton, Mr. John Drinkwater, and President Roosevelt.

The Duke stated that he knew all Mark Twain's works that had been translated into Italian and a large number that had not, his favourites being "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer."

Perhaps the most enthusiastic was President Roosevelt, who wrote: "I shall always count myself fortunate in having as a boy met Mark Twain," and declared himself "a devotee of his books then, as I am now."

Galsworthy, when he was visited by Mr. Cyril Clemens, the president of the society, was moved to verse. He wrote:—

"When all the world's gone wireless mad,
And jazz has got what music had,
And fooling's always bitter stuff,
And no one can be 'amart' enough;
When humour's trifling on screens,
And wit is made in joke machines,
And all the joys of jesting go,
And laughter leaves a world made so;
Then, from such fate if we'd be free,
And gain a sweet delivery,
And know once more a laughing land,
Let Mark Twain rise and wave his hand!"

ARMAMENTS SITUATION AND SECURITY

Pointed Comments By Captain Eden

Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, says that Britain has disarmed to the edge of risk.

London, July 5. Some pointed comments on the armaments situation and upon the problem of security were made to-day by the Lord Privy Seal, Captain Anthony Eden. He expressed his conviction that if a disarmament convention was to be reached it could only be reached on the basis of the British memorandum which he emphasised was a scheme of disarmament.

He did not accept the view, sometimes expressed, that if only the British Government would be more forthcoming on the question of security, and would offer to do more to meet the anxieties of the heavily-armed Powers, a convention could be reached without further difficulty.

There was no security which the British Government could conceivably offer to-day which would of itself enable a disarmament convention to be reached. There were two kinds of security which could be offered.

TERRITORIAL SECURITY
The first he would call territorial security. As to this, Britain had already gone as far as she could go. They stood by the Locarno Treaties but were not prepared to extend their commitments, in respect of those treaties to other parts of Europe with which they were not so intimately concerned.

There remained security connected with a disarmament convention itself—guarantees of execution.

The French Government had made it clear in April that there were then no guarantees for execution of a convention which would enable them to agree to any immediate measure of German re-armament.

The committee on guarantees of execution was now at work in Geneva, but although its report would be examined with care, they should not place too high hopes on its effect on their present difficulty. For while the French Government had hitherto consistently refused to agree to any immediate measure of German re-armament, the German Government had made it no less clear that they would not agree to a convention which did not give them some immediate re-armament.

There, then, was the gulf—wide and deep and not bridgeable by any security offer that the British Government could conceivably make.

MINDS OF OTHER POWERS

"The truth is," said Captain Eden, "that for some months, while our concern in Britain has been emphatically to seek the fulfilment of the true work of the Disarmament Conference, namely, the realisation of a convention, the minds of the other great European Powers, whether consciously or not consciously, have been otherwise bent."

"Germany has been occupied with the consideration of her own re-armament for what she claims to be purposes of national defence. "France has been preoccupied with the problem of security which has been made more intense and immediate for her by the knowledge of the German re-armament claims."

"Italy, pursuing a policy which she claims to be essentially realist, has come to regard disarmament as something which cannot now be realised, and has urged limitation at the present level—a solution which, in addition to its unsatisfactory character, would be in practice as hard to realise as disarmament itself.

"Russia has been concerned to change the whole character of the conference into an instrument for other purposes."

BRITAIN'S ONE EFFORT
"We, almost alone among the great Powers of Europe, have persisted in the pursuance of the original goal of the conference, namely, disarmament. I say this in no self-righteous spirit. Mere self-interest, to cite but the lowest motive, gives us a special interest in the success of the Conference if only because we have disarmed so much already."

"It is no exaggeration whatever to say that in so doing we have disarmed to the edge of risk. I am quite confident that there is no nation at present which looks upon the armaments of Great Britain with suspicion."

"On the contrary, if there is any anxiety at all in respect of our armaments, it is rather the doubt, least, having reduced them so far in a world which has been increasing its armaments, we should not be in a position to fulfil the commitments we have undertaken."

Captain Eden added that while they were as anxious as ever to realise a disarmament convention this could only be done as the result of an agreement between nations.—British Wireless.

INCREASE IN BRITAIN'S AIR FORCE

Mr. Baldwin Replies To Questions

London, July 5. In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Stanley Baldwin refused to give assurance that an increase in the Royal Air Force would not be decided upon before the Disarmament Conference had broken down.

He was asked in a supplementary question, firstly, whether it was not a fact that if the Air Force were strengthened Britain would have been given the opportunity of obtaining a disarmament convention, and, secondly, whether he would arrange that Britain's forces should be equal to the fulfilment of his obligations under the League Covenant.

Replying to the second of these questions, Mr. Baldwin said, "That is of course the very grave responsibility that rests at anytime on the British Government."—British Wireless.

UNVEILING OF VERDUN MONUMENT

Marshal Petain's Speech

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20. The monument to the memory of French soldiers who fell in the Battle of Verdun was unveiled at Paris on Hill 304, on the left bank of the Meuse, by Marshal Petain, the Minister of War. Parties of British, American, Belgian, and Italian ex-soldiers were present at the ceremony.

Marshal Petain, in his speech, dwelt on the supreme importance and responsibility of the commissioned and non-commissioned ranks in war. He referred also to the importance of patriotism, discipline, and the spirit of self-sacrifice among a logical sequel to the recent debate in the French Chamber, during which there were references to the revival of a soldierly spirit in France and to the need for an expansion of the professional Army.

Paris was treated last night for the first time for many years, to a military torchlight procession, headed by mounted trumpeters, which marched between large and excited crowds from the Hotel de Ville to the Arc de Triomphe. This "Reprise Militaire" (similar to those which were restored, together with the three-year period of conscript service, shortly before the War) inaugurated a programme of public festivities of the season, known as the "Grande Quinzaine."

CABLE NEWS IN BRIEF

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Vienna, July 5. The Dollfuss Christian Socialist Party continued its slow but sure progress down the trail to dissolution which all other parties have already been in the new "Totalitarian Austria," with the official evacuation of the Christian-Socialist Club of its rooms in the Parliament Building on Thursday. At the same time the directors of the club handed over Chancellor Dollfuss the balance of 18,000 Schillings remaining in the club treasury "for charitable purposes." The Club resources were yielded only after 61,000 Schillings had been drawn out to buy insurance policies for the protection of dependents of all members of the club who had been parliamentary deputies at the last regular session of Parliament on March 4.

The relaxation of punitive measures against the leading figures implicated in the February revolt took a far more surprising step on Thursday with the release from prison of Karl Renner, one time Chancellor, and former Social-Democratic President of Parliament.

The recent increase in the fighting strength of the civil defence forces in Vienna will become externally visible this week when all police in the Austrian capital will don the uniform hitherto worn only by riot-squads and police officers will be fitted out with long military swords for formal as well as service wear.—Transocean Kuo Min.

SMITH'S AERIAL DROP

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Capetown, July 5. "The world's unluckiest flyer," the young South African, Smith, who gained the famous but unenvied title by a continuous series of crack-ups in the last two years probably took his last unscheduled drop from the sky on Thursday. On a hop from his home town, George to Capetown, the Nemesis-dogged pilot plunged to earth in a lonely part of South African hinterland near Dudsokorn. According to a native eye-witness who brought the tragic news to civilization, the plummeting plane was enveloped in flames before hitting the trees.

Since the searching party which was immediately despatched to the spot has not yet reported, the fate of the hitherto crash-proof flier is not regarded as decisive.—Transocean Kuo Min.

BLEW HIMSELF INTO THE NEXT WORLD

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Kiel, July 5. A novel method of committing suicide took place in the town of Sargard near here on Thursday when Albert Fritz, depressed owner of a chalk works blew himself into the next world with the equipment of his own miners. Stuffing his pockets full of dynamite, the world-weary executive made his way to the centre of a deserted chalkpit, seated himself on a huge heap of further explosives and struck a match. Not only the act was carried out thoroughly, but the majority of the windows throughout the town were blown to bits by the explosion.—Transocean Kuo Min.

HITLER SALUTE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Leipzig, July 5. The refusal to give a Hitler salute despite repeated request by one of the divisions of the Supreme Court bench on Thursday resulted in the exclusion of the local attorney, Dr. Gustav Meizer from the Supreme Court room. Meizer who was formerly a member of the Pan-German party was to have appeared as defence counsel in a non-political case.

The Hitler salute has been known for a year now as "the German greeting" and is made compulsory to all members of the civil service.—Transocean Kuo Min.

THE PAGEANT OF AYRSHIRE

Scotland's Story

(Special Air Mail Service)

Ayr, June 20. Lord Ailsa, Lord Lieutenant of Ayrshire, on Saturday formally opened the pageant of Ayrshire. The pageant, which is produced by Mr. Matthew Anderson, of Liverpool, is based on incidents in the lives of three of Scotland's greatest sons, Wallace, Bruce, and Burns, and as a result Mr. Anderson has great scope, and from the play there emerges a story not only of a county but also of a nation.

Lord Ailsa, in performing the opening ceremony, said that no region in Scotland had more reason than Ayrshire and the South-West to commemorate in pageantry the very notable part which it had played in some of the most critical periods of the national history and to recall with justifiable pride its past achievements.

There are over 3,000 performers in the pageant, 200 horsemen, and a "ballet" of 450. On Saturday night there was an audience of between 6,000 and 7,000, and the weather assisted in giving the pageant a fine send off. A scenic background 100 yards long, with a centre stage opening, forms part of the permanent setting. Scotland's struggle for freedom is depicted in a series of scenes in which the principal figures are Alexander III, defeating the Norwegians, and freeing Scotland, at the Battle of Largs, Wallace fighting for freedom, and meeting his death after the trial in Westminster Hall, Bruce putting the seal to Scottish independence on the field of Bannockburn, the Covenanters achieving through martyrdom liberty to worship in their own way, and Burns giving his inspired songs to the world.

The pageant is a play on an enormous scale, and the speakers' voices are carried by loud speakers. In the closing episode, a stirring spectacle is presented which representatives of the nations of the earth assemble in appropriate costumes to pay homage to Burns.

The music is supplied by the band of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Scots Fusiliers. The pageant will be opened to-morrow night by Mr. John Buchan, M.P. Other operators during the week include Sir John Colquhoun, the Duke of Montrose, Lord Glasgow, and Colonel T. C. Dunlop, chairman of the pageant council.

powers for the next twelve months has gone before the Chamber. The covering report accompanying the bill declares that the measure was an urgent necessity in order to improve the economic situation by increasing confidence to stimulate business and to make possible the Budget to be balanced for the coming year.

At the same meeting rumours of an early conversion of Government bonds were vigorously denied, it being declared, however, that Belgian bonds would be given Government support in some kind since they depressed far below the actual credit capacity of the nation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

GERMAN REPRISALS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 5. The law regarding the economic measures which arms the Reich Minister of Economics with three months' full power to inflict reprisal measures against trade conditions considered harmful to Germany, was published here on Thursday. The full powers, which are effective at once till September 30, include all measures the Minister may consider necessary to promote German economy as well as to protect the same from damage and to remove any harmful factors.—Transocean Kuo Min.

SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Rome, July 5. The sixteen anti-fascist charged with subversive activities, were on Thursday sentenced to various terms of penal servitude, ranging from two to ten years, by a special court of State defence here.—Transocean Kuo Min.

"C" DIVISION TENNIS Only Four Games Played

Owing to the heavy shower of rain which fell in the morning just before lunch and to the uncertainty of the weather several of the "C" Division League Lawn tennis encounters scheduled for yesterday were not played, but three encounters at King's Park and one at the Bowling Green Club were completed.

Most of the courts yesterday were almost unplayable, particularly the Deutscher Klub, where the surface was slippery in addition to some mud patches where the ball refused to bounce, and at the Central British Association's Courts, where it was mainly a game for the best server.

South China's courts were of a similar nature although later on in the evening they improved with the play.

Deutscher Klub v. C.B.C.
The Chinese Recreation Club had an overwhelming victory over the Deutscher Klub in spite of the bad condition of the latter's courts, winning by 8 sets to 1, G. von Ehren and W. Sander beating K. C. Ip and K. M. Wong by good volleys at the net and very effective lobbing.

H. W. AUSTIN Plays Great Tennis In Kent Semi-final

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20. In the hottest weather of the week H. W. Austin reached the final of the Kent County lawn tennis championships at Beckenham to-day, when he defeated J. Fujikura, the Japanese Davis Cup player, by 6-0, 6-3. Austin played extremely confident lawn tennis throughout the match, and apart from an occasional tendency to over eagerness, no fault could be found with any department of his game.

His opponent endeavoured to hit the cover off the ball in the first set, but consistently missed the lines by inches. At the beginning of the second set the Japanese player sacrificed a little of his pace and gained in accuracy, but after 3-1 all Austin played un-touchable lawn tennis and took three games in a row for the match.

SOUTH CHINA v. RADIO

Playing at Home at King's Park, South China scored an overwhelming win over the Radio Sports Club, winning by nine clear sets.

C.P. Ip and F. N. Wong (S.C.):

beat Jeffery and Davies 6-2
H. K. Ho and K. F. Lui (S.C.A.):

beat Chanson and Sheridan 6-1
beat Jeffery and Davies 6-2

C.B.A. v. C.S.C.C.
At King's Park, the Central British Association entertained the Civil Service Officers Club and won comfortably by 5 sets to 3, the bad condition of the ground making it a best server's day.

By the way, and Whitley showed today that he was a real power on the court, and Fisher and Ross, the latter, put things all three of their encounters.

N. Halford and M. Gurevitch (C.B.A.):

lost to G. Fowler and E. H. Shaw 4-6

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY & CO.

New York, July 5.

The American Oriental Finance Corporation report through their New York agents, Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co., states:—

Stocks:—There is no particular change in the market. It is thought that the tone has improved as the consensus of opinion appears to favour the maintenance of long positions, for the full confidence in the up-turn in business at the Fall is seemingly unshaken. Business done: 440,000 shares.

Wheat:—The higher Liverpool market and the increasing premiums in Kansas City were strengthening influences. Pressure was light and hedging was moderate. Canadian weather is ideal. Tuesday's sales: 13,781,000 bushels.

Cotton:—The market responded to higher Liverpool advices but based on Southern selling and long liquidation, apparently induced by favourable weather conditions in the Far West as revealed by the weekly weather report.

Silver:—An undisclosed principal has returned to the market as the principal buyers; the balance of trading came from widely scattered sources. Differences have narrowed slightly. Business done: 80 contracts.

Homestead Mining has declared its regular dividend, plus an extra Two Dollars.

The Chase National Bank has declared a special dividend of Forty-seven Cents.

Brokers' loans have increased by $52,000,000.

H. K. STOCK EXCHANGE

WEEKLY REPORT

The effect of the rise in exchange was further felt in the course of the past week, the quotations for Banks and Unions being further reduced to $1.700, and $530, respectively. In the other sections, Lands and Electrics came under pressure, the first named, owing to moderate liquidation, slipping down to $57 1/2, whilst Electrics found the market unresponsive to a few offerings and became weaker in consequence.

The smaller-priced shares, namely Hotels, China Lights and Cements, monopolised attention for a day or two, but have latterly eased off, and close on the weak side.

The 3 1/2% New Government Loan has been steadily rising since it was placed on the market, and at the close there are buyers at 2% premium.

All in all, a fair amount of cash business was put through during the week, but rather more on the small side.

Closing tone quiet. Business done during the week: Hong Kong Banks, $1800 $1790. Canton Insurance, $290. Union Insurance, $550 $547 1/2.

China Underwriters, $120. Douglas, $41. Wharves, $108.

NEW BANKING LAW.

And Morgan Grenfell's Future

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

Morgan Grenfell Future

As a result of the new American banking law which prohibits American bank as such carrying on an investment business as they used to do, the American banking houses have had to decide whether they would remain bankers and give up their investment business or "vice versa." The famous house of J. P. Morgan and Co. have elected to retain their banking business, which is the more important.

As is well known, for a great many years J. P. Morgan and Co. of New York have had close associations with Morgan Grenfell and Co. of London, which carries on the business of merchant bankers and underwriters and issues securities, and the decision of J. P. Morgan and Co. to confine themselves to banking business has involved a slight technical alteration in the structure of Morgan Grenfell and Co. As from Saturday last, instead of being carried on as a private unlimited company, the business hereafter will be conducted as a private limited company under the same name with a subscribed capital of £5,000,000, of which £1,700,000 is paid up. By this really slight alteration their New York associates, J. P. Morgan and Co., are enabled to retain their interest in the London company while complying at the same time with the new requirements of the American banking law, which incidentally forbids them to hold a controlling interest in an investment company or to hold an interest in a company with unlimited liability. Certain changes in the directorate are involved. Hitherto partners in the New York house have been, partners in the London firm, but as the company ceases to be a firm, it will have directors, who will be as follows:—

Mr. John Pierpont Morgan, Mr. Edward Charles Grenfell, Mr. Vivian Hugh Smith, Mr. Charles Frederick Whigham, Sir Thomas Stewgirth Cato, Bt., Mr. Randal Hugh Vivian Smith, and Mr. Francis James Rennell Rodd.

The London business was established 98 years ago by George Peabody under the style of George Peabody and Co. In 1864 its name was changed to J. S. Morgan and Co. and its present title only dates back to January 1, 1910. It was at the end of 1917 that the company was converted into a private unlimited liability company. The change now made will make no real difference to the business.

EYES ON LOCH NESS AGAIN

Ex-Provost Describes What 'Bus Party Saw

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

The mystery of the Loch Ness monster still commands attention to that stretch of water, and the latest report relates the experiences on Saturday of a bus load of excursionists from Inverness Scientific Society and Field Club returning from Fort-Augustus.

The party, which included ex-Provost D. Petrie, Colonel Henderson, Mr. William Treasurer, firemaster, and Mr. George McBean, registrar, saw a large black object in Loch Ness between Temple Pier and Abriachan.

Ex-Provost Petrie said: "We were near Abriachan when our attention was drawn to two young men on the road who were gestulating and pointing out to the loch."

"We stopped and looked out. About three-quarters of a mile from the edge of the loch we could see plainly a large black object sticking out of the water."

A strong wind was blowing against it, but the object was practically stationary and was certainly not inanimate.

"It was too far away for accurate and detailed examination, but I am certain it was neither barrel, tree, nor buoy, but a living animal of some kind, and what we saw was the head and neck."

CLEARING HOUSE TO BE SET UP

Britain's Message To Germany

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 20.

Vigorous action is to be taken to protect the British bondholders affected by Germany's decision to default on her foreign loans.

Germany has been told—so Mr. Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, revealed in the House of Commons—that Britain will make certain that her bondholders are paid by setting up a clearing house for Anglo-German trade.

Mr. Chamberlain was asked whether his attention had been drawn to the Reichsbank announcement that foreign cash transfers on State loans would be suspended on July for six months, and what action Britain proposed to take. This was his reply:

"The answer to the first part of the question is in the affirmative, and I understand that a communication from the German Government on the subject is being presented to his Majesty's Government although I have not yet seen it."

"Meanwhile his Majesty's Ambassador in Berlin has informed the German Government that his Majesty's Government intend shortly to propose legislation which would enable them to set up an Anglo-German clearing office, but that they would be prepared to refrain from the exercise of those powers if a satisfactory agreement ensuring fair treatment of British bondholders and British commerce can be negotiated before July 1."

"The detailed arrangements and the particular bonds to which they will refer will be worked out as soon as possible, and will of course depend upon the outcome of negotiations with Germany."

"I should add anyone who purchases German bonds now held by foreigners does so at his own risk."

"It will be observed that the declaration made by the Reichsbank refers to medium and long-term loans. I have seen no suggestion that the German Government intend to interfere with the standstill agreement (which applies to short-term commercial debts only), and I see no reason why it should be affected."

Mr. Chamberlain added that imports and exports between Germany and the Dominions would

GERMAN SHARE MARKET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 5.

Although the transactions on the sharemarket still remained small in scale, the prices stiffened all round. This was the direct outcome of the successful conclusion of the transfer conference in London especially in view of the expressed determination of both parties to increase trade between the two countries so as to bring about the relief of the whole transfer tension. Fixed interest securities were also buoyant, mortgage bonds improving substantially, likewise the State and provincial loans.

Call Money 4 to 4 1/2, Young Loan 4 1/2 to 5 1/2, Reichsbank rose 1/2 to 154 1/2, Dyestuffs advanced 1/2 to 148 1/2, Salzfürth Potash jumped 1/2 to 170 1/2, German Steel 1/2 to 117 1/2, German Mineral Oil weakened 1/2 to 148 and Bemberg Rayon 1 higher at 67 1/2. Transocean Kuo Min.

not be affected by the proposed legislation.

How It Will Be Done

The object of a clearing office for Anglo-German trade is to ensure that there shall be transfer of British money to Germany until after exports to Germany have been paid for and the claims of British creditors under the Dawes and Young Loans have been satisfied.

British investors hold £28,000,000 of these two loans.

Mr. Chamberlain's "threat" will not have any effect on Germany's decision. That is the opinion in Stock Exchange and unofficial circles in Berlin, says Reuter.

Germany, it was said, would be quite willing even to put up with a clearing house system if it should be forced upon her.
